Moulding Restoration

We are restoration specialists and regularly work alongside architects, preservation companies, renovation experts and developers to achieve a high profile finish.

Through several technical options, our skilled craftsmen are able to remove years and years of built up paint. This is an ideal solution and can reveal the original moulding detail lying beneath - perfect for those projects requiring restoration.

We have a range of specially designed tools which our craftsmen use to restore mouldings. We can expose the traditional beauty of ornate objects around the property, without damaging or marking the item.

In addition to restoring mouldings, we draw on a great deal of experience to hand make mouldings to make up complete sets. This is ideal to our clients seeking to replace missing mouldings.

Often, items like ceiling roses or cornice parts, get damaged or cracked or are in complete need of reconstructing. Damaged items can be made up accurately using traditional plaster methods - which can be made to match the existing ones exactly.

Specialist Mouldings

Our skilled team can match and create specialist mouldings that are either specially commissioned, or generally modelled on existing features.

Existing plaster and stone mouldings can be reproduced using contemporary methods of design. We team this with traditional methods of craftsmanship.

Through the use of fibrous plaster, we can mould items to accurately match customer's specifications.

Our team are always attentive to clients needs, and take care in their roles. They will ensure that your property is cared for, should we be appointed to install our product items.
